

SPRING 2023 IWL FACULTY FELLOWS APPLICATION

APPLICATIONS DUE: NOVEMBER 30TH, 2022

The Institute for Women's Leadership is excited to announce its search for the next two Faculty Fellows for Spring 2023. We are looking for Fellows to advance gender-related research in a supportive environment for the Institute for Women's Leadership and share their research with a wide audience.

Faculty Fellows will receive a $5,000 stipend to conduct their research over the course of Spring 2023. This stipend may be able to go toward a course buyout if approved by the person's department chair, dean, and Vice Provost for Research and Innovation.

Faculty Fellow Responsibilities

- Conduct gender-related research on a project commensurate with the Faculty Fellow's background, training, discipline, and interests
- Attend weekly or biweekly check-in meetings with IWL leadership and the other Faculty Fellow
- Write a white paper for a non-academic audience to summarize and advance the gender-related research project
- Initiate a panel, symposium, workshop, or other cross-disciplinary or external-facing event for Summer or Fall 2023
- The time commitment is approximately 5 hours per week.

Eligibility Criteria

- Holds a continuing faculty or staff appointment at Marquette University
- Exhibits a proven balance of collaborative and autonomous teamwork
- Candidate preference will be given towards diversifying the IWL team in both expertise and experience.
- Consistent availability throughout the Spring 2023 semester
- No overlap of funding for the same project—the project must be original to and for IWL.

Benefits

- A stipend of $5,000
- Work with a highly collaborative, interdisciplinary team that shares similar passions of building a strong research community of gender scholars at

Testimonials from Previous IWL Fellows

"I loved having the opportunity to think collaboratively with other IWL fellows and leaders about the university's structures and the ways we could create change for women within it. I also loved getting to make immediate changes - like hosting weekly writing support groups - that directly improved the day-to-day experiences of women faculty on campus." Lilly Campbell – Assistant Professor of English

"Serving as an IWL faculty fellow has provided numerous opportunities to engage with other faculty across the university. I have enjoyed engaging with others with similar research interests and philosophies. The IWL Monday meeting is a highlight of each week!" Jody Jessup-Anger – Professor of Higher Education

"As an IWL fellow I enjoyed working with a collaborative, interdisciplinary team that was motivated to promote women's leadership and gender equity through innovative events and programs. Deb Oswald – Professor of Psychology
